

Norway Student Visa Checklist.
6 required · 1 conditional · 0 optional

3–7 weeks

Non-EU/EEA students need a Student Residence Permit from UDI (Norwegian Directorate of Immigration).

Apply online via the UDI portal and optionally use a Norwegian embassy for biometrics.

EU/EEA/Nordic citizens do not need a permit — register with police within 3 months.

Minimum financial requirement: NOK 14,435/month (2026 UDI standard).

Norway has no tuition at public universities (small semester fees ~NOK 600 apply).

Visa type

Norwegian Student Residence Permit is needed by:

undergraduate

masters

phd

vocational

Required documents (6 documents)

These documents are mandatory for all applicants. Missing any of them will result in rejection or significant delays.

Valid Passport

Must be valid for the entire study period. Upload scan online; bring original to biometric appointment.

Acceptance Letter from Norwegian Institution

Official admission letter from a Norwegian university or university college showing unconditional admission, program, and dates.

Proof of Financial Support

Bank statements or scholarship letters showing at least NOK 14,435/month for the entire study period.

ICAO-standard photo uploaded during the UDI online application.

Student housing booking, rental contract, or accommodation confirmation for your stay in Norway.

Keep as backup

Certified copies of academic qualifications. English, Norwegian, Swedish, or Danish documents accepted; others require certified translation.

Conditional documents

These documents are only required in certain situations. Check each condition carefully — it may apply to you.

Health Insurance

Conditional

Upload

Keep as backup

Health insurance for the initial period before registration. Once registered with the Norwegian National Population Register, you access public healthcare.

Recommended during the initial period before registration

Financial proof guide

Proof of NOK 14,435 per month for the study period in Norway.

Minimum amount:

NOK 14,435/month

Accepted forms of evidence:

Bank statements showing the required balance

Scholarship award letter (Quota scheme, Lånekassen, university scholarship)

Study loan approval

Sponsor's bank statements and guarantee letter

Common mistakes to avoid

- 01 Not demonstrating sufficient funds for the full study period.
- 02 Submitting application without the official university acceptance letter.
- 03 Not registering with police/ID card office within 3 months of arrival.
- 04 Missing proof of accommodation in Norway.

All requirements on this page are sourced from the official government immigration portal.
Last verified: June 2026.

<https://www.udi.no/en/want-to-apply/studies/>

With a study permit you can attend university college/university, a vocational school, school of upper secondary education, religion/belief-based school or folk high school. Or you can pursue additional education, be a trainee or perform research.

The information on this page is personalized for

The applicant is a citizen of : Pakistan

Study permit

If you plan to study or go to school in Norway, you can apply for a residence permit for studies.

University college/university/vocational school

Upper secondary school

Folk high schools and bible school

Additional education in order for your education to be recognised in Norway

Vocational training and research

There are different types of residence permits for people who are going to carry out research or participate in vocational training.

Trainee: For students who are to be trainees in Norway.

Researchers with own funds: For researchers who are to carry out research in Norway, but who do not have a Norwegian employer.

Where will you be studying?

University college or university

Requirements of the student

You must pay an application fee.

You must have been admitted to a university college or university.

You must study full-time.

You must have enough money to live on during the period you are going to study in Norway.

This means at least NOK 15 488 per month, or NOK 170 368 per year for the entire academic year. If you are going to be a student for only one semester in Norway, you must document NOK 77 440 for the autumn semester and NOK 92 928 for the spring semester.

This amount of money may consist of student loans, grants, own funds that you have in a Norwegian bank account or the deposit account of the educational institution, or a combination of the above. If you have already been offered a part-time job in Norway, the income from this work may be included. (Please note that if you do not have a bank account in Norway you may use the bank account at the institution where you are going to study. You must contact the institution where you are going to study for any details regarding this arrangement.)

If you have to pay tuition fees, you must also have money to cover this or document in your application that your tuition fees for the academic year 2025/2026 have already been paid. If you have paid for one semester, you must provide documentation in your application showing that you have enough money to pay for the second semester. The money must be in a Norwegian bank account or the deposit account of the educational institution. If you have an exemption from paying tuition fees this must be confirmed by your educational institution.

You must have somewhere to live.

The circumstances in your home country must indicate that it is likely that you can return home when you have completed your studies.

Please note! Because of the circumstances in your home country, it may be difficult for applicants from your country to get a residence permit for studying at a lower level than Master level. We will always consider whether there is something specific with your situation that means that you can get a residence permit even though you are studying at a lower level.

Requirements relating to the study programme

The place of study must be included on the Norwegian Agency for Quality Assurance in Education's (NOKUT) list of approved (accredited) institutions (external website).

Rights and obligations for applicants who are granted a study permit

You can not be self-employed or run your own business in Norway

If you are granted a study permit, you are automatically also granted permission to work part-time for up to 20 hours per week, including remote work, in addition to your studies and full-time during holidays.

Your spouse or cohabitant and children can usually apply to come and live with you in Norway.

Your spouse or cohabitant and children can usually apply to come and live with you in Norway. Please note that UDI currently does not have the capacity to process your family member's application at the same time as your application as a student.

The period you have this permit does not count if you later wish to apply for a permanent residence permit.

Upper secondary school

Requirements of the student

You must pay an application fee.

You must have been admitted to an upper secondary school.

You must have enough money to live on. This means at least NOK 15 488 per month, or NOK 170 368 per year for the entire academic year. This money may consist of student loans, grants, own funds that you have in a Norwegian bank account or the deposit account of the educational institution, or a combination of the above. If you have already been offered a part-time job in Norway, the income from this work may be included. (Please note that if you do not have a bank account in Norway you may use the bank account at the institution where you are going to study. You must contact the institution where you are going to study for any details regarding this arrangement.)

You must have somewhere to live.

The circumstances in your home country must indicate that it is likely that you can return home when you have completed school.

Please note! Because of the circumstances in your home country, it may be difficult for applicants from your country to get a residence permit for studying at a lower level than Master level. We will always consider whether there is something specific with your situation that means that you can get a residence permit even though you are studying at a lower level.

Requirements relating to the education

The education must meet at least one of the following requirements:

You have received an offer of admission to a Norwegian school through an exchange partnership with a county or a non-profit organization

You are going to attend an IB (International Baccalaureate) study programme

You have been accepted to a study programme based on your skills and, consequently, will be attending an institution such as the Norwegian College of Elite Sport, Barrat Due Institute of Music or the Bårdar Academy

You have been accepted to attend Longyearbyen School and will be participating in upper secondary education and training on the mainland in Norway. It is a prerequisite that the Longyearbyen local administration has entered into a cooperation agreement with the relevant county administration concerning student exchange at the secondary education and training level.

Exceptions: If you hold a residence permit in another Nordic country, no requirements apply to the school. If you are a Russian national living in the Barents region, you can get a residence permit for studies at a general studies program.

Rights and obligations for applicants who are granted a study permit

You can not be self-employed or run your own business in Norway

If you are granted a study permit, you are automatically also granted permission to work part-time for up to 20 hours per week, including remote work, in addition to your studies and full-time during holidays.

You cannot apply for a permanent residence permit in Norway immediately after having held a study permit.

Vocational school

Requirements of the student

You must pay an application fee.

You must have been admitted to a vocational school.

You must study full-time.

You must have enough money to live on. This means at least NOK 15 488 per month, or NOK 170 368 per year for the entire academic year. If you are going to be a student for only one semester in Norway, you must document NOK 77 440 for the autumn semester and NOK 92 928 for the spring semester. This money may consist of student loans, grants, own funds that you have in a Norwegian bank account or the deposit account of the educational institution, or a combination of the above. If you have already been offered a part-time job in Norway, the income from this work may be included.

If you have to pay tuition fees, you must also have money to cover this.

You must have somewhere to live.

The circumstances in your home country must indicate that it is likely that you can return home when you have completed your studies.

Please note! Because of the circumstances in your home country, it may be difficult for applicants from your country to get a residence permit for studying at a lower level than Master level. We will always consider whether there is something specific with your situation that means that you can get a residence permit even though you are studying at a lower level.

Requirements relating to the study programme

The place of study must be included on the Norwegian Agency for Quality Assurance in Education's (NOKUT) list of approved (accredited) vocational schools (external website) (only available in Norwegian).

The education cannot be an online study programme.

Rights and obligations for applicants who are granted a study permit

You can not be self-employed or run your own business in Norway

If you are granted a study permit, you are automatically also granted permission to work part-time for up to 20 hours per week, including remote work, in addition to your studies and full-time during holidays.

Your spouse or cohabitant and children can usually apply to come and live with you in Norway. Please note that UDI currently does not have the capacity to process your family member's application at the same time as your application as a student.

The period you have this permit does not count if you later wish to apply for a permanent residence permit.

Folk high schools

Requirements of the student

You must pay an application fee.

You must have been admitted to a folk high school.

You must have enough money to live on and to pay the school tuition fees, a minimum of NOK 130 745 for the 2026/2027 school year . This money may consist of student loans, grants, own funds that you have in a Norwegian bank account or the deposit account of the educational institution, or a combination of the above. If you have already been offered a part-time job in Norway, the income from this work may be included.

You cannot have had a previous residence permit to attend religion/belief-based school (bible school) or folk high school.

The circumstances in your home country must indicate that it is likely that you can return home when you have completed your studies.

Please note! Because of the circumstances in your home country, it will be very difficult for applicants from your country to get a residence permit for attending a folk high school.

Requirements relating to the study programme

The folk high school must included be on the Norwegian Directorate for Education and Training's list (external website).

Rights and obligations for applicants who are granted a study permit

You can not be self-employed or run your own business in Norway

If you are granted a study permit, you are automatically also granted permission to work part-time for up to 20 hours per week, including remote work, in addition to your studies and full-time during holidays.

The period you have this permit does not count if you later wish to apply for a permanent residence permit.

Your permit is valid for one year and it cannot be renewed.

Your family members cannot apply for family immigration to come and live with you in Norway.

University summer schools

If you are going to attend summer school at a university, you do not need a residence permit.

Instead, you must apply for a visitor's visa.

If you have already been in Norway for three months before the summer school starts, you cannot apply for a visitor's visa. Instead, you must apply for a study permit for university college or university

Additional education in order for your education to be recognised in Norway

Requirements relating to your education/qualifications

You must have one of the following types of education/qualifications:

A completed vocational training programme of at least three years at upper secondary school level, for example as a carpenter or health worker. There must be a corresponding vocational training programme in Norway.

Completed education or degree from a university / university college, for example a bachelor's degree as an engineer or nurse

Special qualifications are skills acquired through long professional experience, possibly in combination with courses and some education. You must have as high competence as someone who has completed vocational education from upper secondary school. Generally, you must have at least six years of work experience. For example, suppose you have work experience as a painter. In that case, you must present detailed work certificates from previous employers that show that you have learned and can do the same as a person with a professional education as a painter. It takes a lot to get permission in such cases. Many applications are rejected.

Other requirements of the student

You must pay an application fee.

You must have an occupation for which recognition or authorisation is required (external website).

You must need additional education, work experience or courses in order for your education to be recognised in Norway.

A recognition authority must confirm that you need this work experience/additional education in order to work in Norway, and provide information about what courses, Norwegian classes, work experience or education you are lacking. You will find information about which recognition authority to contact by choosing your occupation from the list at the Norwegian Directorate for Higher Education and Skills website (external website).

You must have enough money to live on. This means at least NOK 170 368 for the entire year. This money may consist of student loans, grants, own funds that you have in your account, or a combination of the above. If you have already been offered a part-time job in Norway, the income from this work may be included.

If you have to pay tuition fees, you must also have money to cover this.

You must have somewhere to live.

The circumstances in your home country must indicate that it is likely that you can return home when you have completed your studies.

Please note! Because of the circumstances in your home country, it may be difficult for applicants from your country to get a residence permit for additional education if you have education on a lower level than a bachelor's degree. We will always consider whether there is something specific with your situation that means that you can get a residence permit even though you are studying at a lower level.

Requirements relating to the study programme

You must have received an offer of admission to a university college, a university or an established school.

If you are going to attend Norwegian language classes somewhere else than at a university/university college, the provider must be on the list of approved providers of Norwegian language tuition/training (external website).

Special requirements of health personnel

You must apply to the Norwegian Directorate of Health (external website) for authorisation or a licence to work in the Norwegian health care system.

You can only be granted a residence permit to take courses that you, according to the Norwegian Directorate of Health, lack in order to obtain a licence or authorisation

If you are a nurse, you must have received an offer of admission to a study programme at the nursing education department of a university college. If relevant, you can then apply for exemption from individual courses.

If you are to complete your required practical training period ('turnus'), you must apply for a residence permit as a skilled worker instead.

Rights and obligations for applicants who are granted a study permit

You can not be self-employed or run your own business in Norway.

If you are granted a study permit, you are automatically also granted permission to work part-time for up to 20 hours per week, including remote work, in addition to your studies and full-time during holidays.

Your spouse or cohabitant and children can usually apply to come and live with you in Norway. If your family members apply at the same time as you, you will receive the answer to your applications at the same time.

The period you have this permit does not count if you later wish to apply for a permanent residence permit.

You can hold such a study permit for a total of maximum two years.

Rights and obligations while your application is being decided

Normally, you cannot enter Norway until your application has been processed.

If you plan to work part-time, you may not start working until you have been granted a permit.

You can not do remote work either.